THE ECLIPSE

The sun, the moon, and the earth will put on nature's greatest show above earth Saturday- an eclipse of the sun; an audience of some 200 million people is expected. The eclipse will be total along an approximately 60-mile wide belt across Alaska, Canada, and Maine. It will be 94% at Boston at 5:47 p.m. In Maine, totality along the favored 100% swath from Jackman to Bar Harbor will be from 5:42 to 5:44 p.m. The rest of Maine will enjoy 98% totality. Other percentages: New York- 89%; Washington- 82%; Chicago- 77%; Seattle- 63%; Miami- 49%; El Paso- 31%; Los Angeles- 26%.

Wherever you are on Saturday- DON'T look into the sun and expect to see the show. Experts say invisible heat rays from the sun can burn the eye without causing you any pain or other symptoms until after the damage is done. Sunglasses are by no means safe enough.

The celestial performance will last about two hours in the totality belt, and shorter periods in areas where the percentage of sun coverage is less. At the start, the moon's shadow can be seen as a black arc biting into the edge of the sun. The blackness will gradually spread across the sun's disk, black it out completely over the totality belt after about an hour, and then move off to the other side at the same pace.

An eclipse of the sun is an awesome spectacle which Maine officials estimate will bring 100,00 non-scientists into that state. Maine will also host several thousand astronomers and scientists. Approximately 900 persons already have reserved rooms at the University of Maine in Orono, which is offering its facilities to scientists from all over the world.

Of the 50 states, Hawaii will have no chance whatever to view the eclipse- whatever the weather.

THE STAFF

This year, as in the past, West End House Camp is indeed blessed in having what we feel is the finest medical, cooking, and maintenance staff that can be found in any camp.

Miss "Frazer," our ever-genial nurse, enjoying her "vacation" from work as medical staff person to over 2000 high school children near her Greenfield, Mass., home, returns to us for her third year. Always ready any time night or day for all emergencies, Miss "Frazer" has time and time again "fixed up" the boys- thus continuing to make us proud of our very fine health record.

With Ralph Haliburton returning to West End House for his 14th consecutive year (matching the age of the mess hall), the people here can be assured of the best food anywhere. Helping our wonderful chef this year is an excellent and talented assistant chef, Cecil Bean, whose meals at MIT in the winter make that college one of the best fed ones in the country. Of course no year would be complete without Alphonse Marsden, whose familiar antics never fail to amuse us, and whose many years of loyal service to the camp have been warmly appreciated by everyone. Another newcomer, Bobby Silva, to whom the whole camp owes "whacks" for his recent birthday, comes to us from Brighton High, where, he informs us, he has won all the physical fitness prizes. Rounding out the kitchen staff is the artist of the week, Johnny Brice, whose animal noises had the whole camp looking for cats, dogs, cows, and chickens last year.

Always a gentleman, George Mouradian, aided by his son, Eddy, has constantly demonstrated his talents, whether it be fixing a power line, repairing the dock, putting in new paneling, clearing the snow from the bunks in the winter, or any of the other countless

A TRIP ON THE YELLOW X TRAIL
by
James Finks and Ray Kwasnick

It all started out when Bunk 4B decided to go on a hike by way of the Yellow X Trail. It was really rough and rugged as we stomped through the tall grass, marshes, and broken down branches. We saw many interesting and scientific features; Mark Drobnis found a big piece of turkey tail fungi. As we walked down the trail, we saw many animals, such as frogs and snakes, and we caught a salamander. When we were about 3/4 the way on the trail, we got lost, and kept on going around in circles. When finally we did find some yellow markings, we had to cross a large stream; everyone either stepped in the mud or fell in the water. We got back to camp after general swim, but Brian let us go in the water with our clothes on. The following pioneers went on the trek: Ray Kwasnick, Jim Finks, Mark Drobnis, Jeff Dobrein, Terry Cubell, Bob Levetin, Lee Block, Hank Lewis, Bennett Davies, and our fearless, gallant leader- Tommy (Stony) Hennekens.

Joel Kessler, Joel Goober, and Ricky Goldstein have also been at this camp for six consecutive years.

Canard's Beach has been in the same family since 1841, and the house at the fork in the road is over 130 years old.

THE COVER

This week's cover is of the cook's house, drawn by one of its occupants, Johnny Brice

Mal Alter's jackets arrived in camp on Thursday, and the whole staff joins in wishing Mal's father a very grateful "THANKS." (In the meantime, Mal would like to give thanks for the safe return of his prize possession.)

Snoopy Nilogram swam two laps under water Thursday.
Ricky Goldstein will soon become an uncle.
